

Top 5 Mistakes to Avoid When Hiring Movers (Powered by Moving Force)

A bad move usually starts with a bad decision.

Most moving headaches—hidden fees, no-shows, damaged items—come from avoidable mistakes during the hiring process.

These tips show you what to avoid.

Moving Force makes sure you don't fall into these traps in the first place.

1. Not Getting an Estimate in Writing

- Always get a clear, written estimate
- Make sure it outlines:
 - Total cost
 - Services included
 - Services NOT included

💡 Pro move: With Moving Force, everything is transparent upfront—no guessing, no vague pricing.

2. Not Providing a Full Inventory

- Movers need to know EVERYTHING you're moving
- Include large items, specialty items, and services needed
- Incomplete info = inaccurate pricing

💡 Pro move: Moving Force helps match you with the right crew based on your actual job size—so you're not underbooked or overpaying.

3. Choosing the Cheapest Option

- The lowest price often comes with:
 - Poor service
 - Hidden fees
 - Higher risk of damage

💡 Pro move: Moving Force connects you with vetted, reliable movers—not just whoever is cheapest. You get value, not problems.

4. Not Asking About Extra Charges

- Always ask about:
 - Travel time
 - Fuel charges
 - Stairs/elevators
 - Packing services
 - Insurance coverage

💡 Pro move: No surprises. Moving Force keeps pricing clear so you know exactly what you're paying for.

5. Not Securing Your Move Properly

- No deposit = higher risk of being bumped or rescheduled
- Overbooking is common with unreliable movers
- A small deposit helps lock in your crew and time

💡 Pro move: With Moving Force, all payments are secure. Deposits are protected, and funds are only released once your job is successfully completed—so you stay in control from start to finish.

Why This Works Better with Moving Force

Most people don't have a moving problem—
they have a hiring problem.

Instead of:

- Chasing down unreliable movers
- Dealing with unclear pricing
- Risking no-shows or delays

You get:

- Pre-vetted moving professionals
- Transparent pricing and scheduling
- Secure payments and guaranteed accountability

Bottom line:

Avoid the mistakes. Control the move.

Use Moving Force and get it done right the first time.
